Feedback from Catania students:

I really enjoyed the academic communication classes, I learnt a lot of things while having fun and it is the best way to learn something.

The programme is complete, it is created to help people develop many different skills. I would suggest it to everyone!

I decided to follow the E&M course in York during 2014. The Uni of York demonstrated its worth putting effort and thought into designing a complete three weeks, fun and challenging experience with logical methods of teaching. During the course, I improved my knowledge of economics and business administration in English while completing the assignments given by professors. By receiving individual feedbacks on them and working in small classes, all the participants have been able to get the most of their time. Then we visited local businesses, which demonstrates a hands on approach of the course. Finally, interacted both with all the professors, deepening our interests, and students from all around the world, remaining in touch with, say, people from Shanghai. At the end of August, I was more confident with English and Managerial approaches but also left with vastly most: the ability to deal with an international environment, seminar experiences, contact with local business and culture and, last but not least, college experience.

This experience improved my social and intellectual experience at the University of Catania!
